Bharmour Treks & Tour Packages

*Where Mother Nature shows you the path to divineness,
Where no else than Shiva himself resides,
Where water flows like streams of milk,
And where flowers blossoms to enlighten the heart,
No other in the world, such a place exists then...Bharmour*

Wondrous Bharmour - The Land of Lord Shiva

Bharmour, anciently known as Brahmpura, was the ancient capital of Chamba, H. P. till 920 AD. Bharmour is situated in Budhil and Ravi valley between North latitude 32° 15' 36" and 32.26° and East longitude 76° 19' 12" and 76.32° at altitude of 2195 meters from sea level forty miles to the south-east of Chamba.

Bharmour is also popular because of its proximity with Manimahesh Lake, Manimahesh Kailash and Chaurasi (84) ancient temples, which are reflecting the glorious past of this hidden town. Bharmour is also known as the Abode of Shiva as there are numerous temple dedicated to Lord Shiva in and nearby regions. The whole region around Bharmour is considered to be under the control of Lord Shiva, hence is also known as the Shiv Bhumi. This place besides being an aesthetic and scenic beauty is also spiritual in essence. The old archaeological remains are said to be the temples in and around the area. Bharmour is inhabited by Gaddies (Shepherd) who reside exclusively on the snowy ranges and mountains which divide Chamba from Kangra and Lahul & Spiti district. The place is also known for its red delicious apples, medicinal herbs, hidden treasures and warm woolen blankets.

Location of Bharmour

Bharmour is situated at an elevation of 2,195 meters above from sea level between the North latitude 32° 15' 36" and 32.26° and East longitude 76° 19' 12" and 76.32° between Budhil and Ravi valley of Chamba district of Himachal Pradesh (India) and is surrounded on all sides by lofty hill ranges. The territory is wholly mountainous with altitude ranging from 2,000 to 21,000 feet.

Why Bharmour?

In the fast, busy and complex world of today where people are totally involved in a continuous pursuit of growth irrespective of their paths, what they are really missing is peace, and a natural way of living a life. Our aim is to promote natural resource sustainability, economic viability and cultural integrity through sustainable tourism development. We enable for our clients to experience remote areas, to view pristine natural beauty and to learn from the cultures of the Himalayas without depleting natural resources or degrading cultural identities.

In this regard Bharmour is the unexplored destination, situated in the Dhauladhar region and Pir Panjal Ranges of Himalaya, between the Ravi and Budhil valley, and known for the Gaddi peoples of Bharmour. The trekking in Bharmour and the hidden treasures are good enough reasons for visiting such a beautiful small town. The Dhauladhar region and Pir Panjal Ranges of Bharmour are a unique destination in world, lots of bird species, beautiful dense forests with meadows, Land and home of the Lord Shiva, diverse flora and fauna, historical and religious monuments, High altitude peaks, 21 Passes, and the home of the Gaddies, an indigenous tribe of Himachal Pradesh. Each day, gives you a different terrain, a different view in different weather conditions. There is tremendous scope of trekking. The mountains are high enough between the altitudes of 10000 feet to 17500 feet, and are very much suitable for beginners and for high altitude trekkers as well.

History of Bharmour

Emperor Meru Varman, the father of the prince Jaystambh in the Chamba state was the first to settle in Bharmour. He belonged to the ruling family of Ayodhya. Meru found access to the upper mountainous region through the Ravi valley. In the middle of 6th century he wins the many battles from Ranas holding their territory and founded the town Brahmpura and he made it the capital of a new state.

According to one legend, the name Brahmpura was in use at a still earlier period for the more ancient kingdom of Bharmour which existed in the territories of Garhwal and Kamaun, and that Meru Varman gave the same name of Brahmpura to the state that he founded with present Bharmour as his capital. After Meru, several Rajas ruled in succession until Sahil Varman. After about four hundred years Sahil Varman who conquered the lower Ravi valley and transferred the capital from Brahmpura to the new capital he founded at Chamba.

According to another local legend, the place Brahmpura was older than Meru's time and as per common belief this is used to be the garden of goddess Brahmani who used to reside Brahmani Devi was having a son who was very fond of his pet chakor (birds). One day the chakor was killed by a peasant and the son was shocked to death by this loose, Grief-stricken Brahmani Devi also sacrificed by burying herself alive. The spirits of these trios dead souls started haunting the people awfully who raised Brahmani Devi to the status of deity and built her a temple. The people believe that the place was called Brahmpura after Brahmani Devi.
