Jalsu Pass Trek Package Code: AATT01

08 Days / 07 Nights Grade: Gradual-Alpine Altitude: 11500 ft
Temp.: 5-10 Degree Season: April - 15 Nov.

The trek which give the chance to learn the techniques of trekking for all the beginners known as Jalsu Jot. Jalsu, origin of the name unknown, is one of the Eastern most Dhauladhar passes at 3450 metres above sea level with its gentle sloping trail towards the North side, it is one of the most extensively used shepherd routes by the Himachali Gaddi tribes. Gaddies of Bharmour especially the resident of Holi valley used this trek whenever they have to go Kangra District instead of long bus route. Even local peoples run this trek in a day from Nayagram to Baijnath. This route is not as popular with tourists as some other Dhauladhar passes; Jalsu is an experience in itself. The rolling grasslands with vegetation extending deep into the trail, sprinkling of conifers, rhododendron bushes and the beautiful yellow grass flowers offer a colourful experience which few other passes can match. Like other Dhauladhar passes, Jalsu forms the boundary between Chamba and Kangra districts but unlike other Dhauladhar passes, its beauty is not in the bareness and rockiness but in the variety of vegetation it supports and colours it shows on both sides. We start this short trek from Bharmour side which has excellent terrain for beginners who just start learning about trekking and other adventure activities.

Darati Pass Trek Package Code: AATT07

10 Days / 09 Nights Grade: Gradual-Alpine Altitude: 15480 ft
Temp.: 0-10 Degree Season: 15 May - 15Oct.

The perpendicular ridge divides the two valleys of chamba known as Darati. And the reroute pass known as Darati Pass is the highest altitude pass in the Pir- Panjal range, an interesting and adventurous trek of 6 days. Darati Pass is a (15480 ft) high mountain pass in Chamba District connecting the Chamba valley with the virgin Pangli valleys. The pass is open from May to mid October. The road head is only up to chanju. Darati Pass is another route to the pangli other than Saach pass the gateway to the Pangli Valley. Saach Pass is the shortest route from Chamba to the Killar (170 km) connecting with rod head but open for few months. Other routes are Chamba - Manali - Killar(680 KM) and Chamba - Jammu -Doda - Gulabgarh - Killar (570 KM). Which are very long routes if compared to the Chamba-Sach Pass-Killar route. But people like to trek this pass by leaving other option of transportation. The trek starts with the normal gradient and become tougher and adventurous on the top of Darati Pass. There is no site to establish a camp on the other side of Pass. After reaching Pangli Valley we take the route via saach pass by taxi. So we cover the two Passes in one trip.

- Day 01 Reception at Pathankot & drive to Dalhousie (80 Kms by Taxi)
02 Dalhousie - Kalatop - Khajiyar - Chamba (55 Kms by Taxi)
03 Chamba - Chanju (Charada) (70 Km Trek)

Indrahar Pas trek Package Code: AATT06

08 Days / 07 Nights Grade: Gradual-Steep Altitude: 14500 ft
Temp.: 0-15 Degree Season: March - Nov.

Inderhar Pass is the ridges over the Dhauladhar do not lend themselves to easy trekking. This trek over the Inderhar pass is no exception, even though it follows one of the more established trails used by the Gaddi shepherds enroot to their summer grazing pastures in the upper Ravi Valley and Lauhal. The ascent to the Inderhar Pass involves a continual climb often over screed or boulders. The views compensate to the south, there are spectacular views of the Indian plains; to the north is the sacred peak of Mani Mahesh Kailash and the snow capped Pir Panjal Range. Beyond the pass and will defined trail leads through the Hindu villages and temples to the upper Ravi valley. This trek starts with the gradually climb through the Himalayan region and turns into steep ascent. Thamsar Pass Trek Package Code: AATT08

03 Days / 12 Nights Grade: Gradual-Steep Altitude: 15000 ft
Temp.: 0-10 Degree Season: 15 May - Oct.

Thamsar pass is a perpendicular cliffs in the Ravi Valley between Holi and Bara Bhanghal have to be cross with great care Many streams rising on slopes of the Bara Bhanghal Range unite here to form the Ravi River. This trail provides an insight into the life of Gaddi People living in the valley. From Thamsar pass to Bara Bhanghal is one of the most pleasant and scenic treks in the Dhauladhar region, and because of the gradual, graded slopes on the northern side of the Dhauladhar no great exertion is needed. Bara Bhanghal lies in a bowl at the base of three high ranges, and many glacier torrents join near the village to form the Ravi River. From Bara Bhanghal you can also go to Kullu valley. Shepherds' trails wind upwards in all directions. Nikora Pass (4745m) crosses the Manimahesh North to Kugti in Budhil Valley; Asha Jot (5033m) and Laluni Pass (5438m) cross the Bara Bhanghal North East to Tandi in Lauhal Valley. Two passes lead to the Kullu Valley. Two passes lead east to the Kullu Valley. The Dhauladhar can be crossed to Kangra Valley by Makori Pass (4605m), Gairu Jot (4664m) and Thamsar Pass (4624m). It is easy to go Bara Bhanghal via following route as grade is normal, gradual and aesthetic but long then other side. One more day at Kangra district give you actual glimpse of Himachal Pradesh.
